Disclosure of Conflicts of Interest

It is the policy of Medical Education Resources to ensure balance, independence, objectivity, and scientific rigor in all of its educational activities. In accordance with this policy, MER identifies conflicts of interest with its instructors, content managers, and other individuals who are in a position to control the content of an activity. Conflicts are resolved by MER to ensure that all scientific research referred to, reported, or used in a continuing education activity conforms to the generally accepted standards of experimental design, data collection, and analysis.

Overview

The mission of the AACMFS is to improve the health and quality of life of patients with congenital and acquired CMF disorders by the advancement of knowledge of the science and art of CMF surgery. Fellows of the Academy will present their selected abstracts on current research and innovations in practice in the areas of:

1. pediatrics, craniomaxillofacial and orthognathic surgery,
2. trauma,
3. head and neck oncology,
4. reconstruction and
5. education, training and research.

The goal of this activity is to bring together experts in their respective fields to share scientific studies, technological advancements and clinical outcomes, to improve care for patients with craniomaxillofacial pathologies.

Keynote speakers will address common challenges in managing surgical patients. Topics include innovations in minimally invasive craniofacial repair in pediatrics, and choices in analgesics to better target pain and inflammation.

Target Audience

This scientific session is for oral and maxillofacial surgeons and dentists who are Fellows of the AACMFS who have come together to advance their field of practice and are interested in sharing experiences and setting future direction.

Professional Practice Gaps

Fellows of the AACMFS are individuals who are involved in developing and working in OMS training programs. It is essential they stay abreast of the decisions being made that impact the length of training programs as well as the content. As the practice of medicine evolves in this specialty, Fellows need access to the latest research of their colleagues, so they can improve OMS patient outcomes.

Assessment of Need

A survey conducted by the American College of Maxillofacial Surgeons revealed that training programs are changing and there is a steady and continual erosion of the basic science curricula. There is a concern regarding adequately preparing surgical residents for the complexities of patient care, as well as for medical and/or specialty board examinations, if the core sciences are minimized to the point of omission. At issue is creating a continuum of training that focuses on allowing residents to train to their level of interest and competence, while utilizing optimal resources based upon regional politics and access to clinical material. Consideration should be given to having fellowships and residencies accredited by the ACGME and the ACS, to alleviate concerns over the integration of dentistry into health education.

Methodology-Format

This course is structured to be highly interactive, where Fellows present a five minute abstract, with a ten minute discussion period. Keynote speakers will also present lectures with discussion sessions. Abstracts are printed for reference at the meeting and are available post meeting.

Objectives

Upon completion of this scientific session the attendee should be able to:

1. Assess research abstracts and studies as they relate to craniomaxillofacial patient populations, pathology and treatment options, and the implications for changes in practice.
2. Discuss advancements in biologics and technology, and appropriate utilization.
3. Evaluate potential academic and curricular modifications to enhance knowledge, competency and improve relevancy.
4. Examine contemporary interdisciplinary and cross-functional patient care delivery models with respect to your clinical setting.
5. Compare innovations in managing pediatric patients with minimally invasive surgery to traditional approaches.
6. Discuss choices and improvements in pain management for craniomaxillofacial patients.

Call for Abstracts

DUE FEBRUARY 1, 2019

Abstracts for oral presentation at the AACMFS Annual Meeting will be the focal point of the Scientific Session and must be submitted to Julie@aamcfs.org by February 1, 2019 to be reviewed and accepted.

A 500-word limit for abstracts that includes:

- Concise title of the clinical study or research (abstract)
- List of all authors with academic/professional credentials
- Academic and/or Clinical Institution name which supported/participated in the study
- Presenter name & credentials*
- Headings as relevant:
 - » Purpose
 - » Materials and Methods
 - » Results and Conclusions

Abstracts may focus on basic/scientific, translational or clinical in nature, including case reports which would likely elicit robust discussion. Each abstract presentation will be no more than 5 minutes in length followed by an allotted time for discussion. Upon acceptance, authors will be notified of final presentation and discussion times.

Abstracts will be considered for the following sections:

1. Pediatrics, Craniofacial and Orthognathic Surgery
2. Head and Neck Oncology
3. Craniomaxillofacial Trauma Surgery
4. Craniomaxillofacial Reconstructive Surgery
5. Education, Training and Research

Please consider the opportunity of sharing your work with colleagues!

*Abstracts may be presented by one of your institution's fellows; however a 'Fellow/Member' of the AACMFS must be one of the authors.
